

A Stranger's Smile

When the morning drags you up

When coffee doesn't help

What can fix your bad mood?

What on earth can help?

Maybe, a moment of kindness

Is caffeine all its own

A small moment of love

Can make your bulb shine bright

A stranger only takes a second

Before they can be a friend

Despite not knowing who you are

Shows kindness all the same

A small smile can change your mood

A bad day turned to good

A smile on a stranger's face

Can help to change the world

Being kind can change the story

Shift the views of angry men

Being kind can help them

Not see differences like sins

Instead that simple smile

Allows peace to be found

Agreements to be drawn up

For treaties to make wars end

One small word is a tipping point

The first domino to fall

One by one the pieces come together

And change the world for the good of all

So as you walk to work

Smile at a stranger

You have no idea what will happen

When kindness wants to play
