

The story of the enemies who became friends

There was a story of a world full of global peace. This was possible because of the famous saying “When the world seems to be filled with anger and resentment it is never too late to add a little friendship to the situation.” While everyone followed this saying there were two people who seemed to follow this saying extremely well and those people were two famous twins. They were famous for spreading global peace throughout the world. This was possible because the twins would go out all over the world and show people that friendship is important for global peace because without global peace the world would not be what it is. They also show global peace by helping people remember the importance of friendship.

But it wasn't always like this. There was a time where the famous twins were not famous in fact they disliked each other. If it wasn't for the military school none of this would have happened. The twins started off hating each other but they both had the same dream to apply to the Military school and after hearing about how they should do it they went for it . After a few months of practice they received a letter from the school saying that they got in. They were so happy but not happy for each other, and they were whisked off to the military school and once they got there the training started and the twins were doing well.

A couple of months later the school made an announcement which said that there was going to be a global internship at every sister city in the world but the internship had limited spots. While the twins thought that the internship was amazing they were also happy about the limited spots so they decided that they would try out separately and to make the other person lose but was not successful, and the day of the test came and the twins took the test head on and came out feeling confident .

The results came out and only one twin got into the internship. The twin who got in jumped for joy and he went on his way spreading global peace throughout the world leaving the other twin behind. The other twin was furious. And decided to go to war with the other twin. And this war was not ordinary. This was intense. The war was so intense that during the war the evil twin got badly injured and had to go to the hospital for several months . While being in the hospital the evil twin had a lot of time to think. Once the twin got out of the hospital he realized that he should keep the friendship and not fight with his twin. So he decided to go and help spread global peace. While the twins were sharing global peace they were becoming friends and helping spread harmony.
